Miss Youker's visit to her sweetheart has been kept secret. It occurred on Tuesday evening, but news of it did not leak out until to-day. The pretty young woman, who formerly taught chemistry in the high school at De Kalb, arrived

Few persons in Waukegan knew that the boy on trial for murder before Judge Charles H. Donnelly had a brother. The Tuesday night visit was the first Charles Orpet had made upon his brother since the latter was incarcerated in the Wau-tegan jail a few days after the tragedy.

Miss Youker was permitted to see the alone. Sheriff Griffin escorted Orpet is imprisoned. She slipped quickly to the bars that shut off the row of cells and stood waiting in silence in the dim light of an electric globe.

"Of course I don't," repied the girl.
"I am innocent. I will be vindicated.
